BREED THEATRE.

The Vampire of the Desert, Two-Reel Vitagraph Feature Today.

A picture of most unusual quality is the feature at the Breed today, entitled The Vampire of the Desert, produced in two reels, by the peerless peared on the Breed's screen this season. A Perilous Ride is a story of many thrills and includes the escape of the young station agent upon a handcar while she is pursued by the mounted Mexicans who ride on the track until the bridge is reached, when they are unable to follow, and she is saved. Florence Turner is in the pretty com-edy Counsellor Bobby, and Crane Wilbur is the hero in The Right of Way,

DAVIS THEATRE. Mori Japs Coming Monday.

The show billed for this popular theatre Monday is one that is sure to meet with the approval of our patrons. Heading the bill is the Mori Brothers, a trio of clever Japanese artists who do some sensational equilibrist work and feet balancing. Other Japanese acts have played here but this one comes to us direct from Keith's New Tork theatre, where they have been featured on all the big bills. Another act we can vouch for is the Martelles. two clever entertainers of the highest class, who do a piano, singing and vio lin act, playing only the best music that requires skill and years of hard practice to accomplish. This act carries their own baby grand piano, Allen and Francis do a nifty singing and dancing specialty full of catchy songs and humorous chatter that is original and entertaining. As a single number Mattle Quinn has few equals. She is a winsome little lady with a pleasing voice and manner that captivates her stage. The feature photoplay is a two-reel western drama entitled Ashes of Thau, telling how a derelict, a thing without honor among men, finds the vital spark within him ignited by a mother's love. Good dramas and the usual funny Keystone comedies complete another good show.

NEXT WEEK AT THE AUDITORIUM

The musical comedy shows at this popular theatre are getting better every change and the crowds are coming stronger and stronger every week. Next Monday promises to bring the biggest and best musical show yet. It is composed of eleven clever people—five men and six girls—including two real comedians who do some very clever work. The girls were especially chosen for this act and are all about the same size and stature. They are well trained, work well together and all have good voices and sing the very latest of popular music. The Girls from the Follies is the name of the act and it has been making a big hit everywhere it has played, and the management consider themselves very fortunate in securing them, as they had a hard fight to do so. There is no question but that The Girls from the Follies will be by far the best musical show seen here this season. The picture programme will be head ed by Bred in the Bone, a three-real 101-Bison Indian-military picture which is extremely exciting. There is also a clever comedy featuring Billy Quirk of the Gem company.

POETRY

THE FLAG.

There's a flag hangs over my threshold, whose folds are more dear to me Than the blood that thrills in my bosom its earnest of liberty; And dear are the stars it harbors in its sunny field of blue. As the hopes of a further heaven, that lights all our dim lives through.

But now, should my guests be merry, the house is in holiday guise. Looking out through its burnished win-dows like a score of welcoming Come hither, come, my brothers, wno wander, in saintliness and h sia; Come hither, ye pilgrims of nature; my heart doth invite you in.

My wine is not of the choicest, yet hears it an honest brand;
And the bread that I bid you lighten, I break with no sparing hand. TO RENT-At Pine Grove, Niantic, Conn., furnished summer cottage, eight But pause, ere you pass to taste it; one act must accomplished be, Salute the flag in its virtue before ye sit down with me.

The flag of our stately battles, not struggles of wrath and greed; a strikes for a holy lesson, its spangles a deathless creed.

'Twas red with the blood of Freemen, and white with the fear of the foe: And the stars that fight in their courses 'gainst tyrants its symbols know. Come hither, thou son of my mother! we were reared in the self-same we were reared in the self-same arms;

Thou hast many a pleasant gesture, thy mind hath its gifts and charms.
But my heart is as stern to question as my eyes are of sorrow full;
Salute the flag and its virtue or pass on where others rule.

Thou lord of a thousand acres, with heaps of uncounted gold.
The steeds of thy stall are haughty, thy lackeys cunning and bold.
I envy no jot of thy spiendor, I rail at thy follies none;
Salute the flag and its virtue, or leave my poor house alone.

Fair lady with silk and flouncings, him waving thy stainless plume.

We welcome thee to our banquet—s flower of costlicst bloom.

Let an hundred maids live widowed to furnish thy bridal bed;

But pause where the flag doth question and bend thy triumphant head.

Take down now your flaunting banner; for a scout comes breathless and pale,
With the terror of death upon him; of failure is all his tale.
"They have fled while the flag waved o'er them; they turned to the foe their back;
They are scattered pursued and are scattered, pursued and slaughtered; the fields are all rout and wrack."

Pass hence, men, the friends I gather, a goodly company;
ye that have manhood anew, go.
perish for Liberty.
e babes God gave me will wait
with uplifted hearts,
the firm smile willing to kindle,
and the will to perform our marks. And

When the last heart lies bloodless, when the fierce and false have won.
I'll press in turn to my bosom, each daughter and either son;
Bid them loose the flag from its bearings, and we'll lie down to rest
With the glory of home about us, and its freedom locked in our breast.
